Macon Track Race Close Up to Finish

By DANNY THOM
Telegraph Sports Editor

Lee Fidler didn't know if he was going to win the Macon Track 10,000 Meter Labor Day Road race "until the end."

Fidler, a graduate assistant at Appalachian State University in Boone, N.C., led at each mile check point. He finally opened a clear lead about a mile from the finish line to beat Tim Henry, of Gainesville, Fla., by 12 seconds.

Fidler, 28 and a native of Carrollton, Ga., ran the 6.2-mile course from near Wesleyan College to Central City Park, in 30 minutes, 58 seconds. Henry was clocked in 31:10.

Dave Harrison of Gainesville, Fla., was third, 31:50; William McCheaney of Atlanta, fourth; 32:47; and Steve Reece of Powder Springs, fifth, 33:01.

Joylen Garverick of Ocala, Fla., won the women's division in 41:47 with Betty Jo Ely of Tallahassee, Fla., second at 42:04. Ann Wright of Macon was third in 44:11.

Thousands of people lined Vineville Ave. to watch the race and applaud the runners. A large throng greeted the contestants at Central City Park.

Fidler ran with the pack for the first half mile. Going up the long hill near Rivoli Drive, he burst into the lead. Thereafter he led the race to the finish.

"I thought I'd have to make a move going up that hill," he said before the race.

He ran the first mile in four minutes, 58 seconds. His time after two miles was nine minutes 50 seconds as he picked up the pace. After three miles Fidler's time was 14:50 as the runners continued the blistering pace.

At the four-mile mark Fidler still led at 20:10, which included a crisp hill just past Interstate 75. Fidler then picked up the pace again to hit the five-mile mark in 25 minutes flat.

"I thought we were pretty quick the first mile," Fidler said. "No, I wasn't surprised at the pace. When I found out Foster wasn't here, I just decided to run a comfortable pace."

Top-ranked runner Steve Foster of Gainesville, Fla., did not appear for the start of the race. It was not known what kept him from competing.

Meanwhile, Henry stalked Fidler incessantly. Each time Fidler would move out a little faster, Henry kept pace.

"It seemed I would move up on Lee in the hills," Henry said. "But, going down the hills, he moved away from me. I guess there were just more downhill than uphill today."

The two runners were almost elbow to elbow for the first five miles much to the delight of the crowded intersections along the route. After Fidler and Henry ran up the hill before Cotton Street, Fidler started to put some daylight between himself and the second-place finisher.

"I kept up the pace right from the start hoping more would drop back," Fidler said. "Dave Harrison dropped back but I had hoped Tim would, too. He didn't."

"I knew Tim was within striking distance all the way, but I didn't know if I would win until the end. I wasn't going to let up, though. If he caught me, he was going to have to work for it."

Of the 422 entered in the race, 353 finished. Five runners suffered apparent heat prostration and were taken to the emergency room at the Medical Center. All were under observation, but none were admitted at press time.

Joylen Gaverick didn't know if she would be able to run in the Macon Tracks 10,000 Meter Road Race on Monday. During mid-August at a training camp in North Carolina, she ran into a cable and injured her right leg. It was painful, and she had to stop training for 10 days.

But, Gaverick recovered sufficiently to win the women's division in a time of 41 minutes, 47 seconds.

"It's still painful," she said after the race. "The lay-off hurt me a little, but I really got pumped up by all of the people along the route who were applauding and calling out my name. It was inspiring and thrilling."

"I want to thank the people of Macon for making this a really great day for me."

Gaverick attends Central Florida Community College in Ocala. However, she was the University of Florida's first woman scholarship track athlete last year. She attended Forest Hill High School in Ocala.

She continued her training at Florida and finished fifth in the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women (AIAW) national cross country meet in the spring of 1975.

The Atlanta Track Club won the team event with race winner Lee Fidler, 30:58; Mike Caldwell, 33:42; and Wayne Roach, 33:55.

One of the heart-warming stories of the race was 11-year old Lori Lindsey of Macon. She finished third in the women 20-and-under division with a time of 50:34.

"I trained only two weeks for the race," the Jonesco Academy student said. "But, I plan to train more and run in more races."

Bryan Albea of Lilburn, and Vincent Johnson, both 8 years old, were the youngest runners in the race. Albea was running in his 10th 10,000 meter race of the year and finished 151st the Macon Tracks in 44:45.

The oldest finisher among men was James T. Strickland, 62, of Atlanta. He finished in 48:29.

The oldest finisher among women was 54-year-old Virginia Reinhardt of Ashburn, Ga., in 54:01. She has run in almost every major race in the Southeast.

Eight-Year-Old Struts His Stuff

By TOM GIFFEN
Telegraph Staff Writer

Vincent Johnson came running "home" Monday.

Finishing in 198th place in the Macon Tracks 10,000 Meter Road Race, Vincent was out of the running for a T-shirt, but the sound of applause in Central City Park grew as he neared the finish line.

And justifiably so.

At 48 inches and 57 pounds, the Lilliputian Atlantan cut a striking figure with his white sun visor bobbing with his belt and towel hanging from his gait.

A real veteran of road racing, Vincent, whose family is from Macon, ran the 6.2-mile course from near Wesleyan College to Central City Park in 48:57 — less than five minutes behind his father, Louis Johnson Jr.

"No, this isn't my first race," the youngest Johnson said softly between swigs of Coke. "I've run before and I like it."

"My daddy and I run together whenever we can," he said, seemingly fully recovered from his morning's exercise.

"This is my first time running this kind (10,000 meters) of race against other people," Vincent admitted. "No, I'm not tired — I've run in longer races and felt okay too."

Louis, 40, the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Louis Johnson Sr. of Macon, finished 107th with a 42:03. His time was not as good as he had expected, but his son's time amazed him.

"We've got a 6.2-mile layout near our home in Atlanta and we've been practicing on it since July 5," he reported. "Vincent's best time has been around 53 minutes."

Vincent, who along with both his parents will have a birthday on Oct. 9, started running when he was five. It was his decision.

"He's just taken after me," his father reported.

"One day I had a backache, and Vincent told me he had a backache too. I said I was going to do some exercises and then run some to try and work it out."

"Vincent said he was going to do the same thing too, and he's been running since. You know, he's run a 6:04 mile," the older Johnson reported, beaming with pride.

Vincent and Bryan Albea, of Lilburn, were the youngest contestants in the race. Albea finished 151st with a 44:45 time.

Trips to Macon for the Johnsons are frequent, but this time Vincent came home struttin' his stuff.
